ROOSEVELT'S NOMINATION

WOULD BE CALAMITY.

Pittsburg, Aug. 21.--Former President Theodore Roosevelt in a letter to Alexander P. Moore, editor of The Pittsburg Leader, made public today, says: "I must ask not only you, but every friend I have, to see to it that no movement whatever is made to bring me forward for the nomination in 1912. I should esteem it a genuine calamity if such a movement were undertaken." The leader has been advocating the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt for President in 1912.

HEALTH OFFICER OF WAKE COUNTY WANTS HIS FEES

Mandamus Proceedings Instituted to Make County Commissioners "Come Across."

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 22.--This afternoon there was brought before Judge W. R. Allen, at Goldsboro, a proceeding for writ of mandamus against the Wake county commissioners to compel them to pay the fees of Dr. J. J. L. McCullers, as county physician, through the arbitrary appointment of Secretary Rankin, of the State board of health, after the commissioners and school board had failed to agree on a county physician and his salary. The commissioners refuse to recognize Dr. McCullers as county physician and the contest has already developed several sensational features, including the debarment of Dr. McCullers from the county institutions when he seeks to enter in his capacity as county physician. The State board prescribed a scale of fees for Dr. McCullers in lieu of a $2,500 salary that the county school board fixed and the commissioners refused to allow. Under this Dr. McCullers' fees for two weeks in July aggregated $88.50.

WILL BUSICK IS RELEASED ON BOND PENDING TRIAL

Until Frank Hudson Can Appear in Court Trial on Assault Charge will not be Held--Bond $200 Furnished by Busick's Father.

In Municipal Court this morning there were only two cases, but there was considerable interest in the proceedings for the court room was crowded during the entire session. In the absence of Judge Eare from the city Judge Hines presided over the court and dispensed justice.

Walter Calder and Dave Elkins were charged with an affray. It seems that the two engaged in a scuffle in Elkin's place of business because Calder used obscene language over the phone and was asked to get out. This he refused to do and the scuffle resulted. After hearing the evidence Judge Hines dismissed the defendants with a warning.

The case against Will Busick, the charge being assault with a deadly weapon was called and the case continued until the prosecuting witness can be able to appear in court. Pending the trial Busick was released on a bond of $200, the bond being furnished by his father. It will be remembered that Busick seriously cut Frank Hudson last week and since that time has been lying in jail, while his victim has been at St. Leo's hospital in a critical condition. It was stated by Dr. Jarboe, who is attending young Hudson, that the patient is now out of danger and will probably be able to be out in a few weeks. Until he is able to appear in court the trial of Busick will not occur. The tentative date fixed this morning for the trial was September 4.

NEW HANOVER MURDERER HAS LEASE ON LIFE

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 22.--Dick Gause, under sentence in Pender County Superior court to be electrocuted August 25 for the murder of Ned Gibson in a Wilmington dive March 20, receives a respite at the hands of Governor Kitchin to September 22 in order that his attorney, E. H. Bland, Goldsboro, may have opportunity to prepare his case for commutation to life imprisonment that the governor will be urged to grant. The plea will be that Gause was convicted on the testimony of a number of the vilest negro women, one of whom brought about the fight in which Gibson was killed. Also that when under the influence of whiskey or cocaine as was the case that night, Gause is really insane and irresponsible. The conviction and death sentence were in a special July term of court held by Judge Ferguson.

TENNESSEE DOCTOR PLEASED WITH HOOK WORM DISPENSARIES

Visits State to Ascertain the Benefits Derived From Their Use.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 22.--Dr. Allen West, secretary of the hookworm commission for Tennessee, has been in North Carolina the past week looking into the operation and results of the free hookworm dispensaries that are being so successfully operated in this state under the direction of Dr. Jno. A. Ferrall, secretary in charge of the hookworm campaign in this state. Dr. West says he expects to inaugurate a similar free dispensary campaign in his state at once. It is a notable fact that in North Carolina thirteen counties have already made the necessary appropriations for the operation of these dispensaries and they are to be provided by Dr. Ferrall just as rapidly as possible. Among the counties already having the advantages of this dispensary treatment are Robeson, Sampson, Columbus, Duplin and Cumberland.

FIRE PROTECTION FOR THE STATE BUILDINGS.

Raleigh, Aug. 22.--The state board of public buildings and grounds has arranged for the placing of automatic fireproof shutters for the windows opposite each other in the Supreme court and the agricultural department buildings, north of the Capital Square, with a view to preventing the spread of flames from one building to the other in case of fire in either buildings. The work of putting up the shutters is under way now. Both buildings are regarded as fire traps at best. Both have, however, night watchmen who patrol them regularly every night.

DIVORCE LAW IS A QUESTION FOR STATES

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 22.--Concerning uniformity of divorce laws for the United States that is to be discussed by the governors of the states at Lake Spring, New Jersey, in their approaching conference there, Governor Kitchin today expressed the view that the divorce question is one for the states; but that uniform divorce laws throughout the United States are desirable, particularly so, if such uniformity can be obtained along the lines usually followed in the older states. But that uniformity on the lines followed in some newer states would not be desirable.

EXTRA SESSION CONGRESS PASSES INTO HISTORY

Adjourned This Afternoon According to Previous Announcement--Summary of Work of Session and List of Measures Passed and Those Vetoed by President.

Bills Passed By Congress and Signed by the President.

- Canadian reciprocity bill.
- Bill requiring publicity of campaign funds before election.
- Bill to reapportion representation in the House.
- Bill revising the wool schedule of the tariff law.
- Bill revising the cotton schedule.
- Bill placing more than one hundred additional articles of prime necessity on the free list.
- Resolution approving the Constitution of Arizona and New Mexico to enable them to become States in the Union.

Closing Minutes of Extra Session.

Washington, August 22.--While waiting to receive the President's veto on the cotton bill, the House and Senate passed minor bills of a private nature. In the House unanimous consent was given to Rodman Wanamaker to erect a huge monument to the American Indian in New York harbor. In both houses evidences were on every hand that members were anxious to get away. All were busily engaged in shaking hands and saying good byes.

At 2:30 o'clock President Taft left the White House for the Capitol where at three o'clock he signed a number of minor bills passed in the last hours of the extraordinary session.

Washington, Aug. 22.--Although the extraordinary session of the 62nd Congress, just adjourned, was called primarily by the President to consider and enact legislation to carry into effect the Canadian Reciprocity agreement, which the previous session had failed to do, many matters beside this subject have been considered and passed. Some of them the President approved and others he vetoed.

In keeping with the pledge which the Democratic leaders of the House made to the President before the session began, the House promptly took up the reciprocity question, and passed it by an overwhelming majority, although the Republican opposition to it was strong. In the Senate the temptation was great to add various Democratic riders to reciprocity affecting the general tariff law, but the leaders insisted upon keeping him the exact sort of legislation with respect to the Canadian agreement which he recommended in his message. So far as the United States is concerned all has been done that can be done to establish free trade relations with the Dominion under the pending agreement, and it only remains for the Canadian Parliament to take similar action to carry the pact into effect.

Every act of legislation considered by the present Congress was initiated in the Democratic House. Pending the consideration of the reciprocity bill, the first action of the House after its organization, was the passage of the resolution, with only minor Republican opposition, providing for the submission to the several States of an amendment to the Federal constitution to enable the people to elect United States Senators by direct vote. For only the second time in its history the Senate consented to consider such a proposition. The House resolution was finally passed but not until the Senate had amended it in such a way as to give the Federal government the power to control Senatorial elections in the States. This provision has proved unsatisfactory to the Democratic House, and because of that fact, the resolution remains unacted upon in conference, and must await further consideration at the coming regular session.

The next action of the House was to pass a bill requiring campaign committees to make public before elections, as well as after, their receipts and disbursements. Once before in a previous Congress, the House passed a bill of this character, but it was emasculated in the Senate, and publicity was confined to receipts and disbursements after election. This time, however, the Senate went even further than the House, and passed a measure more radical, in which publicity of primary campaign expenses is required, and a limitation is placed upon the amount which a candidate for the Senate or the House may expend in seeking office.

After having disposed of reciprocity, as it was expected it would do, the Democratic House took up the subject of tariff revision, schedule by schedule. Its first effort in this direction to revise the tariff downward was the passage of the farmers' free list bill, in which the customs duties upon more than one hundred articles embraced in the necessities of life, were removed. The Senate took the measure, and after modifying it to some extent, particularly with reference to meat and cereal food products, placing them upon the free list only when coming from such countries as those with which the United States has a reciprocal trade arrangement effecting other articles, and in this form passed it. The bill was vetoed by the President, however, because of his avowed determination not to approve any tariff legislation that was not based on a report of the Tariff Board which thus far has made no report.

The next step of the Democratic House was a revision of the woolen schedule, which reduced to 20 per cent the duty on raw wool and made corresponding reductions in the manufactures of woolsens, on the average reducing the rates substantially one-half. In order to get the Senate with its Republican majority to agree to a revision of this schedule, it was necessary to adopt a compromise measure wherein the duties on raw wool were placed at 25 per cent, with the rates on manufactured woolsens adjusted accordingly. This also was vetoed by the President because the tariff board had not reported on it.

Then the House took up the cotton schedule, from a Democratic standpoint considered only a degree less obnoxious than the woolen schedule. Here too, the rates of the Payne-Aldrich bill were substantially cut in two, but this action also was vetoed by the President for the same reason that he vetoed the other tariff amendments. Doubtless the House would have continued its schedule by schedule revision, making reductions in the duties on iron and steel products, and in the chemical and sugar schedules, had it not been for the announced determination of the President to veto all tariff measures except reciprocity, passed at this session.

The Statehood resolution approving the constitutions of the Territories of Arizona and New Mexico to enable them to become States in the Union, was the cause of much controversy, and finally resulted in Presidential disapproval by reason of the provision in the Arizona instrument affecting the recall of judges. The Flood resolution introduced by Representative Flood of Virginia, chairman of the House committee on Territories, provided for the approval of the constitution of both Territories, with the qualification that in the case of Arizona the people would be given an opportunity to vote it out--and that the people of New Mexico would be afforded a like opportunity to vote upon the question of making their constitution more easily amendable, but even this treatment of the recall section was objectionable to the President and prompted him to veto the resolution.

The one remaining important measure passed at the session, which was fortunate enough to receive the President's approval, was the bill providing for Congressional reapportionment. This measure increases the number of members in the House of Representatives from 391 at present to 433, exclusive of Arizona and New Mexico. Under this provision no State loses in representation although several make gains, ranging from one to six. New York will make a gain of six members in the House, and Pennsylvania will gain four, the next largest number. The apportionment provided in the bill will remain in effect until after the next decennial census is taken.

The Democrats of the House pledged themselves as a party to the enactment of the "Dollar-a-Day" pension bill, for Union veterans of the civil war, a measure which has been much advocated in the interest of the old soldiers. Inasmuch, however, as it could not become operative until after the next fiscal year, on July 1, 1912, no attempt was made to pass this bill in the extraordinary session.

WHAT CONGRESS ACCOMPLISHED DURING THE EXTRA SESSION.

While the total results of the extra session of Congress appear small, when considered from certain points of view, on the whole a great deal has been accomplished. The measures passed which received the support and approval of the President are of real importance, as the future history of the country is likely to show. Other important measures passed and vetoed by the President are bills for which the extra session should be given due credit. It is true that these do not become laws, but Congress is not responsible for that fact, having done its duty in passing them on to the President. Upon the chief executive must rest the blame for the failure of these measures to become laws of the land. That he will be censured for vetoing tariff reform measures and that his course will have much to do in causing the defeat of his party in the next national election is a foregone conclusion. It is too late now, however, to avoid the effect of the President's action. It will have a powerful effect on the trend of events in the next election and on the result of that election.

The record of the Democrats during the extra session is one which will strengthen the party all along the line. The pledges of the party, on which members of Congress were elected, have been kept. All that the Democrats could do to reform the tariff has been done. A Republican President, whose alleged tariff reform ideas did not materialize when the test time came, prevented the complete success of the Democratic program; but the Democrats in Congress cleared themselves and their party of responsibility. There is no doubt of the fact that the people of the country will be willing to further trust the Democratic party to enact legislation which is demanded, and that next year's election will place them in complete control of the government, so that Democratic policies can be enacted into laws for the relief of the tariff burdened masses of the country.

As an unbiased estimate of the work of the extra session and the record of the Democrats in Congress, the following from the Baltimore Sun is a fair summary:

"The extraordinary session of Congress which will be brought to a close this week has been distinguished by legislation of real importance. Called by the President for the purpose of ratifying the reciprocity agreement with Canada, it has ventured deeply into tariff legislation, though the most important measures passed failed to become laws by reason of the President's veto.

The session met on April 4 and proceeded at once to consideration of the Canadian reciprocity agreement. This was promptly ratified by the Democratic House, but was held in the Senate for three months before it was ratified. Opposed by many Republican Regulars and some of the insurgents, it was ratified by Democratic votes, as Mr. Taft cheerfully admitted in his public statement thanking the Democrats for their public spirited support of an agreement negotiated by a Republican President. Reciprocity with Canada, involving free trade in a number of important products, will go into effect as soon as the agreement is ratified by the Canadian Parliament.

Both houses passed a joint resolution for the admission of New Mexico and Arizona as States, with the proviso that the provision of the Arizona constitution looking to the recall of judges be again submitted to the voters, for ratification or rejection, and that a provision for easier revision of the New Mexican constitution be also submitted. This resolution was vetoed by the President, who refused to accept any constitution with a provision for the recall of judges. A second resolution eliminating the section to which the President objected, was adopted, and Arizona and New Mexico will be admitted as States when Arizona has accepted this amendment to its constitution protecting its judges from the recall.

The House passed the farmers' free list bill, putting upon the free list a large number of necessities used by all classes of consumers. With certain amendments this was passed by the Senate. Though it was designed to lower the cost of living, the President vetoed it on the ground that his Tariff of 1890 was investigating, and announced that he would refuse to approve any tariff legislation until that board had made its report.

On the same ground Mr. Taft vetoed the wool bill, which provided for a considerable reduction in the rates on raw wool, woolen goods, clothing and blankets, and constituted a needed revision of Schedule K, which is considered the most unjust feature of the present tariff. Mr. Taft himself having admitted that it is "indefensible."

The House passed the cotton bill, radically reducing the tariff on cotton and cotton goods, which was amended in the Senate and went back to the House. This measure according to agreement, will be passed by the House today. His action on the wool bill and the farmers' free list bill indicates that the President will also veto the cotton bill.

"A bill was passed providing for the reapportionment of membership of the House of Representatives according to the census of 1910, and increasing its membership from 391 to 433, thus insuring against loss of representation by any State. This bill was signed by the President and has become a law. The addition of 42 Congressmen and the admission of Arizona and New Mexico will mean a large increase in the electoral vote next year and may have an important effect upon the result of the Presidential election.

Though urged by Mr. Taft in a special message to provide for more specific regulations for the enforcement of the pure food and drugs act, neither house took any step toward the amendment of that law.

The joint resolution for the submission of a proposed constitutional amendment looking to election of United States Senators by direct popular vote was passed by the House, but when it reached the Senate was changed by the adoption of the Bristow amendment, which, able authorities contend, gave specifically to Congress the power to regulate elections in the various States. This aroused the fear of a possible "force" bill, which would overturn the election laws and constitutional amendments adopted by the Southern States to eliminate the ignorant negro vote, and the House refused to agree to the Senate amendment and the resolution is left in conference, to be acted upon at the next session.

The new arbitration treaties negotiated by the President with Great Britain and France were submitted to the Senate, but have not been ratified. They will be taken up for consideration at the regular session.

An important measure passed is the bill which provides for the publication of campaign contributions before election. The House passed the Rucker bill, amending the present publicity act, which provides for publication after election. The Senate made its provisions far more sweeping, making it apply to primaries as well as elections, and limiting the amount any candidate may spend to $10,000 for a Senatorship and $5,000 for membership in the House.

If Congress adjourns on Tuesday as expected, it will have been in session four months and eighteen days. While the inaction of the Senate for the first three months caused the loss of considerable time, and the President by his veto defeated the tariff revision downward which the Democrats and Insurgents succeeded in carrying through both houses, the special session has succeeded in passing a far-reaching campaign publicity law, ratifying the reciprocity agreement that will give us freer trade with Canada; has increased the membership of the House and apportioned the increase among the States in proportion to population; has provided for the admission of two new States; brought one step nearer the direct election of Senators, and has clearly outlined the issue of tariff revision upon which the campaign of 1912 will be fought. This is a real record of accomplishment."

Under wise leadership, progressive but not radical, the Democratic majority in the House has been welded together into a legislative organization that can secure results without friction and without the crack of the party whip which Cannon wielded over his supporters. The rules of the House have been changed so as to provide freedom of debate without hampering legislation, committees have been put on a working basis, honors and responsibility have been distributed with a fair hand, and the administration of Champ Clark as Speaker has made the regime of Czar Cannon seem like a political despotism that will return no more. The breach in the Republican party has widened until the differences between the Regulars and Insurgents seems unbridgeable, and through the co-operation of Insurgents with Democrats the old-line Republicans lost control of the Senate they have held for so many years. With responsibility suddenly thrust upon them by the call of an extra session, the Democrats have met the test with a courage and ability that have excited uni-

TAKING CARE OF THE CONSUMERS' INTERESTS IN DES MOINES.

The Telegram mentioned some time ago the plan which has been adopted in Des Moines, Iowa, for opening the market houses of the city to farmers and aiding them in selling their produce direct to consumers. The Charlotte News also had mention of the Des Moines plan, and this fact caused a citizen of that city to write the News in regard to the matter. The Des Moines man's letter to the News is as follows:

"We notice that in a recent issue of your paper you had an article regarding the market place idea that is being used in this city. You will perhaps be glad to have other information in the subject.

"The city council has given the free use of a park adjoining the city hall for the use of the men desiring to bring in their produce. They are also allowed to stand by the curb in front of the city hall and on two streets near the city hall. For the protection of the producer the men selling produce at the market place have a sign on their wagons stating whether they are gardeners or hucksters. The gardeners are allowed to sell their goods from 5 a. m. to 10 a. m. and the hucksters are not allowed to sell their goods during this time.

"The market place is open three mornings during each week, and is being well patronized, and seems to be a very satisfactory arrangement. Between one hundred and fifty and one hundred and seventy-five wagons are on hand each morning. It eliminates the profit that has been paid to the middlemen, and enables our consumers to get their selection of the freshest goods at a considerable reduction in cost."

"Investigation" and "Confidence."

About this time of the year they begin to say in New York that "Congress is injuring business," that there is too much "investigation" and that "confidence" is disappearing. Then little tremors begin to be felt in the stock market, prices fall and the murmur in Wall Street is echoed in Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia and so on, until wherever money is handled the apprehensive tones of the timid business man are heard in gentle protest. In this "land of the free and the home of the brave" we are afraid to talk boldly of our affairs and we fear the government by which we are ourselves supposed to govern, lest the vibrations started end in the crashing and splintering of our national business structure. So we tip-toe about and marvel that so long we tolerate the recklessness of our Congress our press and our investigators.

One supposes that if Congress had not met in the last 90 years and the magazines and newspapers had been silent and the "investigators" had asked no questions, somebody would have had a fine time. "Business" would not have been disturbed in the least. The prices of United States Steel, of American Tobacco, of Standard Oil and other stocks would have commanded by this time quintuple their present prices. Why not? Railroad rebating would have gone on merrily, "agreements among gentlemen" would not have been interfered with and prices of commodities would have mounted to exactly that last point at which people can still afford to buy. Surely, the stability of the stock market would have been splendidly maintained and this country would have exhibited to the civilized world a "prosperity" that verily would have dazzled it to blindness. Mr. Carnegie would have had the money to make three libraries grow where he has planted but one, and Mr. Morgan long ago would have rifled Europe of all its art treasures. Surely, the Congress, the investigators and the wretched "muck-rakers" have marred what might have been a lovely picture.

But if the raising of the tariff schedules were not resisted, the "trusts" were bidden to go on with their interlocking and interlocking, rebating were approved and all men gagged lest "confidence be impaired," what would be the fate of Smith, Brown and Jones and all the lesser men who creep between the legs of an immaculate Colossus of Capital? If 60 Captains of Finance were in full possession of five times the capital that they have acquired, how much would be left Smith, Brown and Jones? How long would they be spared before the "trusts" that establish the libraries and hospitals would stretch forth their tentacles and seize the lands, the houses, the retail stores, and workshops, as well as the mines, water powers and forests? Does any man imagine that, left alone to follow the bent that moved them to acquire already and in spite of some vigilance and ill-directed protest, the billions in public utilities and resources by which they levy tribute on every man, woman and child now in being in this republic, they would not by this time so have entrenched themselves in financial power that the only escape from industrial vassalage on the part of the people would have loomed as an imminent danger to the public peace? We know at least that secrecy, that working in the dark, have been the distinguishing characteristics of the methods of "big business," we know that a prima case of wrong-doing is so indicated, and yet we are told "to keep quiet," that our Congress should adjourn, that we should await the reports of "scientific experts" in tariff making and that, especially the mouths of our pestiferous and impertinent "investigators" should be stopped—lest "confidence" fail! Surely a great game is this of "Confidence!"

Beyond doubt, in the reformation and readjustment of laws and ways of business necessary to save the plain man from passing into an industrial slavery and to preserve this country as a land of opportunity to him, we shall have wrenchings, dislocations and fractures and many an innocent bystander will suffer sorely but, after all, we may console ourselves that it is a wonderful and rich country, the ownership of which has trembled in the balance and the average man, the "little fellow in business," has the same right to that maxim credited to the father of J. Pierpont Morgan that Mr. Morgan himself has—"The man who is not a bull on the future of the United States will break." Of that at least the son inherits no monopoly.—Columbia State.

The Evening Newspaper.

The evening is the time for retrospection. It is the time for the summing up of the day's achievements. It is a time for casting up of accounts, not of your business, but of the affairs of men, and the afternoon newspaper is the one clearing house through which you may gather all this information and that within an incredibly short length of time, and you go to sleep feeling sure that you are abreast with the times, that you know what is going on in this great world of ours, that you are not dragging along in the rear while your fellows are well up in front.

The afternoon paper is not a luxury. It is as necessary as life or fire insurance. It is even as necessary as the church. The pulpit and press, together with the railroad and steamboat and telegraph and telephone, are the factors which have brought about wonderful developments in America within the past few years, and these self-same factors will assist in developing yet other betterments and improvements and the afternoon newspaper is not the least of these.—Arkansas Democrat.

WHITE HOUSE COST $50,000.

All Sorts of Expense Required to Keep It Cozy a Year.

Washington, Aug. 22.—It cost Uncle Sam $50,000 to keep the White House presentable and cozy last year. Colonel Spencer Cosby, in charge of the building and grounds, says in his annual report. One hundred men were busy during the year repairing the building. The elevators, vestibule, and roof were all "done over." A new system of lightning protection was installed, the storerooms were remodeled and a new telephone system was installed. While President Taft was at Beverly last summer every piece of furniture in the house was repainted or "rubbed up."

An allowance was made for the clerks in the Executive offices who worked over time getting out invitations for social functions. During the year the office force worked on four state dinners, 10 small dinners, four musicales, four evening receptions, two day receptions, two dances, two balls, four garden parties, and the President's silver wedding anniversary.

Thirty Years Together.

Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time—or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guess work in this evidence of Thos. Ariss, Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and it's the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. Many families have used it for forty years. It's the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequaled for laryngitis, asthma, hay fever, croup, quincy or sore lungs. Price 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Farris Klutz Drug Co.

COMMISSIONERS OF INSURANCE MEET IN MILWAUKEE TOMORROW

Special to Telegram.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 22.—With prominent insurance men from all parts of the country and the insurance officials of practically every State in the Union here all indications today point to one of the most important meetings in the history of the organization, when the forty-second annual session of the National Convention of Insurance Commissioners convenes tomorrow. The convention will be in session four days, adjourning Friday.

Governor Francis B. McGovern of Wisconsin, arrived in Milwaukee today, to officially welcome the delegates tomorrow morning. Superintendent of Insurance Hotchkiss of New York, chairman of the executive committee of the convention, will respond to the Governor. The president of the organization, Commissioner Joseph Button of Richmond, Va., will follow with an address, and reports of committees and miscellaneous business transactions will conclude the day's meeting.

Wednesday will be probably the busiest day of the convention. Problems vital to the insurance business will be treated by experts of the country, all of them State Superintendents of Insurance. Commissioner Ekern of Wisconsin, will discuss "The Fraternal Situation." "Policy Loans" will be the subject handled by Commissioner Preus of Minnesota. "Present Laws for State Insurance" will be treated by two speakers, Superintendent Moore of Ohio, and Commissioner Ekern of Wisconsin, each explaining the laws in his own State.

Thursday will be devoted to the subject of fire insurance. Commissioner Palmer of Michigan, will speak on "Fire Prevention," while Superintendent Potter of Illinois, will deal with "Unauthorized Fire Insurance."

On Friday the election of officers for the ensuing year will be held, the place for the next convention will be fixed, and after an executive session, the convention will adjourn.

Attack Like Tigers.

In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuscles attack disease germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then see pimples, boils, eczema, salt-rheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fail. This condition demands Electric Bitters to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to expel poisons from the blood. "They are the best blood purifier," writes C. T. Budahn, of Tracy, Calif. "I have ever found." They make rich, red blood, strong nerves and build up your health. Try them. 50c at Farris Klutz Drug Co.

Foley Kidney Pills give quick relief from pain and misery and a prompt return to health and strength. No woman who so suffers can afford to overlook Foley Kidney Pills. Howard Gardner.

Time may be money, but it makes a poor sort of bank account.

Foley Kidney Pills will check the progress of your kidney and bladder trouble and heal by removing the cause. Try them. Howard Gardner.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Greensboro Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, gravel and Bright's disease.
Doan's Kidney Pills help sick kidneys.
Here is proof in the statement of a nearby resident.

J. A. Harder, Davis St., Burlington, N. C., says: "I was troubled a great deal by backache and dull pains through my loins and sides. I often noticed that the kidney secretions were unnatural and passed entirely too frequently. Upon a friend's advice, I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box. I had used them but a short time before my kidneys were restored to their normal condition. I heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

REAPPORTIONMENT BILL CAUSES POLITICAL TALK

Speculation as to Effect on Presidential Election of Increase in Electoral College—Will be 531 Votes in Next Electoral College.

(By VICTOR ELLIOTT.)

Washington, Aug. 22.—Interest and speculation in the happenings of the election in 1912 have been redoubled since the passage of the reapportionment bill.
With the knowledge of what the future strength of the various States will be in the electoral college, politicians are working overtime trying to figure out what the probable outcome will be. The situation was puzzling before the passage of the bill, but since then no one will venture even to make a guess as to what the outcome will be.

The Democrats are calculating how they are going to elect the next President.
They profess to believe there is little question of the result of the next election. Most of the hopes of the Democrats rest in their confidence of being able to carry the State of New York. If they can bring New York under their banner it is possible that they can carry the country. Should they fail in their expectation to carry New York some of their leaders concede the election of a Republican. Nothing save a complete political upheaval would enable them to muster enough to win the election without New York.

The Republicans will not admit that there is any danger of them losing New York, in spite of recent set backs and large Democratic gains. Republican leaders are relying upon the "interests" to pull them through. Despite the air of security that the Republicans assume in New York, they realize what it would mean to lose the State, and are not un-derestimating the strength of the Democrats. Both parties will leave no stone unturned in the coming presidential election to win the popular will of the people of New York. The thick of the fight made by both parties will centre in that State.

As the election draws near, the importance of New York will be emphasized. That State always has been a great battle ground in presidential elections. It will be more so than ever in 1912. Politicians on both sides are claiming the State with great confidence, but inwardly they are not as positive as they would have their hearers believe. They are skeptical of the result and each is secretly making plans to outgeneral the other.

In the last electoral college there were 483 members. Of this number Taft got 321 and Bryan 162. Bryan received the votes of Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.
These States then had a vote of 162 in the electoral college, and under the reapportionment bill will have 174. There is little doubt that the Democrats will again control these States in the next election. Nothing will break the "Solid South" in the next campaign.

In the next electoral college there will be 531 votes, including Arizona and New Mexico. Two hundred and thirty-six votes will be necessary for an election.
Should the Democrats retain the 162 votes they had in the last election it will only be necessary for them to gain 104 in the electoral college to win the presidency. This is by no means an impossibility.

President Taft will in all probability carry his home State, Ohio, but if Judson Harmon is nominated for President by the Democrats it will be a bitter and close fight. Many Democratic leaders assert that if Harmon is nominated, he will carry the State by a large majority. Harmon is about the only man who could make things uncomfortable for Taft in Ohio. Even if Harmon could win the State away from the Republicans, it would not assure the presidency to the Democrats, for in some sections of the country Harmon is not strong.

and would not carry the States that either Champ Clark or Woodrow Wilson could. What he would gain in one place he would lose in another.

Police Dogs Are Employed To Do Strike Duty Patrol.

Photos of policemen with dogs by American Press Association.

New York's bow wow squad is doing strike duty, patrolling the lines of the Coney Island and Brooklyn Railroad company at night to prevent destruction of property by strikers or sympathizers. The tracks of the company run through a section where passersby are few and patrol posts are long.
The strike has been marked by considerable violence, and it was thought that desperate men might conceive the notion of wrecking the road with explosives or cutting the trolley wires under cover of darkness. So the police dogs were ordered on patrol as the most effective guard. The bow wow squad consists of sixteen husky Belgian sheep dogs and Alsatians, all trained to their special work. A leather muzzle prevents the dog from inflicting a wound by his bite, but gives enough play to the jaws to afford a hold upon a man's clothes.

Another important State that will have a great deal to do with the election of the next President is Illinois. The chances favor its retention by the Republicans. It can hardly be classed as a doubtful State.

Eliminating Ohio and Illinois from the Democratic column the Democrats may possibly gain these states: California, 13 votes in the electoral college; Indiana, 15 votes; Missouri, 18; New Jersey, 14;

Minnesota, 12; Montana, 4; West Virginia, 8; Arizona, 3; Delaware, 3; Connecticut, 7; making a total of 97. These States are all doubtful now and it is quite possible for the Democrats to carry them.

Maine is now Democratic and may remain so on account of reciprocity. The reciprocity pact with Canada may shift all the border States to the Democratic

Of the pain which many women experience with every month it makes the gentleness and kindness always associated with womanhood seem to be almost a miracle.

mation, heals ulceration and cures fe-column.

If the Democrats could gain 45 votes in the New York delegation the election of their candidate for President would be a comparatively easy matter. All these calculations are based upon the reapportionment bill which recently passed Congress. Besides increasing the House of Representatives membership from 391 to 433, it has given ground for the study of the next Presidential election.

This bill will have an important bearing upon the Presidential election. It was passed in the Senate only after Senator Root made a fight to leave the membership of the House at its present number. This motion being defeated, we tried to fix the membership at 405, but this also was defeated by a combined vote of the Democrats and insurgents.

TAFT MAPS OUT SIX WEEKS' TOUR OF WEST.

Will Visit Territory of Progressives in Campaign for Renomination.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Plans for President Taft's trip through the West and to the Pacific coast were virtually completed today. The journey will be almost as extensive as that taken by the President on his famous "swing around the circle" in 1909, when he traveled more than 13,000 miles and visited thirty-three States.

He will break ground for the Panama Canal Exposition, at San Francisco, make several score of addresses and attempt to scale the 14,000 feet of Mount Rainier's precipitous slope.

According to the present arrangement the President will be gone six weeks.

It is expected he will make close to 200 speeches. Republican leaders look upon the trip as the most important politically that the President has mapped out since he entered the White House. He will go through all the States in the West in which they recognize the domination of the progressive Republicans, who are counted on to oppose his renomination next year.

With adjournment virtually assured for this week, the President feels he can get three weeks' rest at Beverly and be in trim then to stand the admittedly hard grind of forty days in a private car.
The President probably will leave Beverly September 17, returning east about November 1.

Tea Punch.

Tea punch makes a pleasant variation on iced tea and is just the thing to serve at an informal summer afternoon gathering. To prepare it put a tablespoonful of Ceylon tea in a large earthenware pitcher and pour over it a quart of boiling water. Cover the pitcher with a folded napkin—not too thin—and let it stand for five minutes. Then strain the liquid and add a full pound of sugar and the strained juice of six lemons and two oranges. Crushed mint leaves may be added if desired. The whole should be served with ice and apollinaris. There is no he found in the market a special mild 40-cent tea used especially for preparing iced tea.

Maple Sugar Spring Biscuit.

These dainties are served with the sweet course at dinner or luncheons, and are equally acceptable at 5 o'clock tea. Make a rich baking powder biscuit dough, roll it to one-quarter inch in thickness and spread half of it with melted butter, then sprinkle butter with maple sugar forced through the food chopper; put on the other half of the dough, cut into cakes with a small biscuit cutter, and brush over the top with beaten egg. Bake in a moderate oven and serve hot.

Orange Jelly.

Soak one-half box gelatin in one-half cup of cold water for half an hour. Add cups of boiling water and dissolve. Then add one cup of sugar and one cup of orange juice. Strain through a very fine strainer and set away to harden.

Onion Toast.

Toast bread and butter it, cook on ions until tender and crush them, add milk, salt and pepper to taste; heat and pour over the buttered toast.

CHILD CRUSHED IN STREET UNDER HEAVY TRUCK WHEELS.

Richmond, Aug. 22.—In full view of his mother, several sisters and a score or more of people, Louis Mancini, the eighteen-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mancini, of 1804 East Franklin street, was run over by a heavy truck yesterday afternoon about 4:45 o'clock, and crushed to death. The truck, which was driven by James Lyle, colored, was drawn by two big mules, and owned by J. C. Phaup, a teamster of Shockoe Slip. Accounts vary concerning the speed, but inasmuch as the mules were moving uphill, going east, it is claimed that they were moving at a swift trot.

The child, barely able to toddle, was on the south side of the street, about fifty feet from Eighteenth street. He attempted to run across the street, and had gone about halfway when struck. The fore wheels passed over the skull, completely mashing it, while the rear wheels also passed over, grinding the head to a pulp. It was said that the driver did not stop his wagon until he had gone fifty feet beyond the dead boy.

Lyle, the driver, was placed under arrest and taken to the First Station. There he gave his age as twenty years and declared that the accident was unavoidable; that he did not see his victim until both wheels of his truck had passed over his body.

FORMER VIRGINIA SOLDIER PARDONED BY GOVERNOR.

Richmond, Aug. 22.—Upon the nearly unanimous request of the officers of the Virginia Volunteers, Governor Mann yesterday issued a pardon to Captain Edward W. Jones, of Norfolk, who has served more than six years of an eighteen-year sentence in the State Penitentiary for murder. Because of the absence of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, the papers could not be issued, but they will be signed today and Jones will walk out of the State prison a free man.

At the time of the crime and trial this case was the centre of public interest in Virginia. Captain Jones, who had been in the militia for many years, and was regarded as one of the best officers in the State, murdered a woman of Norfolk named Maud Cameron. Sentiment was much divided as to the extent of the punishment, but the trial terminated in a verdict of murder in the second degree, with the maximum term of eighteen years' imprisonment.

Astor Still on His Yacht.

Fairfield, Conn., Aug. 22.—The time and place of the coming Astor-Force wedding continues a carefully guarded secret. The belief that this old town had been selected was punctured today when Mrs. Force and her daughter Katherine, who arrived on Saturday for the "week-end," departed for Asbury Park. The yacht Noma, with Astor, his fiancée and his prospective father-in-law on board, is still cruising off the coast, those on board refusing to discuss the wedding plans.

HOW TO COOK MUSHROOMS

Variety of Combinations Can Be Served With This Edible Fungus as Chief Ingredient.

A Philadelphia hostess noted for her delicious dinners, and especially for various combinations that have mushrooms as the chief ingredient, says that the reason none of her guests is ever ill after a mushroom supper is that she always has fresh mushrooms, never the canned or bottled sort, and always has them cooked for ten minutes or so before adding the various tid-bits that go to make up the delectable whole. Mushrooms require more cooking than most persons think, and should be thoroughly done before they are served, no matter how much the impatient ones may say, "Oh, they are cooked enough; they will not harm me," as every chafing dish cook has heard them say at times. An Italian dish which this hostess has discovered consists of oysters scalloped with macaroni and served with a mushroom sauce. Cheese is omitted and paprika takes the place of cayenne to make the flavor more delicate, otherwise the oysters and macaroni alternate and are flecked with butter, as in other ways of scalloping, and the dish is one for the gods.

NEW WITNESS IN BEATTIE CASE FOUND

Southern Engineer Says He Saw Paul Beattie Near Scene of the Murder Night Mrs. Beattie was Killed

Richmond, Va., Aug. 22.—Counsel for Henry C. Beattie, Jr., today found a new witness of the greatest importance to its case. The witness is R. F. Ellington, who has told friends that he saw Paul Beattie on the night of the murder and not far away from the scene of Mrs. Beattie's death. Ellington is an engineer on the Southern Railway and is personally acquainted with Paul Beattie.

Ellington says that he saw and recognized Paul Beattie the night of the murder not far from the belt line tracks in Chesterfield county, where the gun was afterwards located. The defense asserts that if Ellington will repeat his former statements on the witness stand, he will completely shatter the alibi of Paul Beattie.

RABBIT STEW, FRENCH STYLE

New Recipe Recommended to Housewife Who Would Make a Hit With the Folks.

Cut up rabbit, wash and put in jar; now put on the following spices: Salt and pepper, a pinch of cayenne, two whole chill peppers, eight or ten whole peppers, the same amount of cloves and allspice, three or four laurel leaves; then a finely cut onion; three or four cloves of garlic cut fine and about two or three slices of lemon. Then cover with good claret wine. Set away in cool place for two days. Half an hour before cooking take out all the pieces; put in a strainer and let strain. Now put on a frying pan in which you have placed a good sized piece of butter or half butter and half lard; let get smoking hot, then put in your rabbit and let fry on both sides. Then throw all in a stew pan and keep on frying until all is fried. Take your frying pan and put in more butter and lard, then take a heaping wooden ladle of flour and brown it nicely; put in a fine cut onion; when pretty nearly brown, cook a few minutes longer. Then take the wine and spices, with the onions and garlic the rabbit was soaked in, and make the gravy; use all that has drained from the strainer; if not enough add a little water; then pour over the rabbit in the stew pan, and let stand an hour and a half, or until tender. When done, pour on a hot platter. Be liberal with grease, as it is required to make stew good.

IDEAL CHINA DISPLAY

CORNER CUPBOARD IS MOST SATISFACTORY REPOSITORY.

Combines Perfect Safety With Effective Background and Dignified Frame or Setting for Delicate Treasures.

By far the most beautiful and satisfactory repository for china is the old corner cupboard or buffet, which is found in all well built houses belonging to the latter half of the Eighteenth century. These cupboards were sometimes open, but more often had glass doors, frequently of great beauty. Here was every requisite for the ideal display of china. They combined perfect safety with an effective background and a dignified frame or setting for these delicate treasures. The arrangement massed their colors in a decorative panel, at the same time that it placed them low enough for leisurely enjoyment and accurate observation. Happily for us, this good old fashion is being revived in our modern houses and will soon become deservedly popular.

Cupboards built into the wall space upon each side of the chimney afford occasion for a display of china which is architecturally delightful. Sometimes a built-in sideboard is used, or a less formal arrangement of shelves in a chimney recess, or Inglenook. Again we find a carved wall cabinet, or a combination of plate shelves with a corner seat—all of which are modifications of what we may well call the panel arrangement.

As to the border arrangement, the best instance of this is the plate rail at the top of a rather high wainscoting. It is an ideal location for patterns highly decorated in beautiful and delicate designs. Their position is low enough to be within range of close observation and of leisurely enjoyment, yet high enough to make them quite safe from danger of accident. A similar arrangement higher up in the room, even over doors and windows, is allowable for plates whose border is a simple band of some solid color, or for larger pieces which are slightly imperfect.

Besides these permanent arrangements for china, there are infinite possibilities in the line of temporary provisions. The china cabinet which originated in the days of Sheraton, is familiar to us all. Many good ones are to be bought, and they make possible the artistic massing of china.

Another well-known piece of furniture is the dresser, whose vogue waned almost to the vanishing point, but is now being revived by craftsmen of the present day. It is now being developed in forms so simple and so charming that they bid fair to become most desirable aids in the artistic arrangement of well selected china in any dining room.

Another revival of an old-time adjunct is shown by the interest taken in the wall plate racks which have been so long in use among the Tyrolean peasantry. From these crude and simple suggestions have been evolved designs of infinite variety, and many of them rich in decorative carving.

All such wall fixtures as racks, shelves, or cabinet form delightfully decorative spots of color above the sideboard or the serving table. There is infinite scope for originality along these lines; and when they are well constructed, much beauty of arrangement can be obtained at a comparatively slight expense. The craftsman needs only a proper sense of proportion, a logical sense of fitness, and a practical knowledge of his craft. To these he can add an unlimited variety in decorative finish. Certainly nothing adds more to the charm and attractiveness of a dining room than quaint and pretty china, arranged in artistic fashion.

Rhubarb Marmalade.

Peel five pounds of rhubarb and cut in one-inch pieces. Put in a preserving kettle, add six pounds of sugar, cover and let stand over night. In the morning bring to a boiling point, and let boil 20 minutes; then add one pound of figs, chopped very fine, and the grated rind and juice of three lemons. Stir until well mixed, again bring to the boiling point, and let simmer three hours. Turn into marmalade jars or jelly tumblers and seal.

Lemon Custard Layer Cake.

Two cups sugar, half cup butter, one cup milk, three eggs, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder and three cups flour. This makes four layers. For filling take the juice and grated rind of two lemons, one egg, one cup sugar and one-half cup water, one teaspoon butter and two table spoons of flour mixed smooth with a little of water. Boil this together until it thickens (watching carefully), then place between layers.

Ham Rabbit.

Mix well together one-half cup of deviled ham, one cup of grated cheese, four beaten eggs, one cup of cream and salt and paprika to taste. Cook over boiling water until thick, stirring constantly and serve at once on crackers or toasted bread.

A Good Buttonhole.

Stitch the buttonholes in underwear on a crosswise thread of the material. Instead of the usual lengthwise one, and sew them around by machine before finishing with the hand buttonhole stitch. In this way they will not break out.

The Progressive People of This Town Send Messages to Each Other Through the Want Ads!

When an employer publishes a help wanted ad he knows that only progressive people will see and answer it. When a property owner prints a "real estate for sale" ad he knows that not many people will read it except those who are able and inclined to buy real estate.

When a landlord advertises a house or apartment for rent he knows that, as a rule, only the "business like" people read and answer such ads, and that he is not apt to secure an undesirable tenant in that way. And the work-seeker, the capital-seeker, the "sub-landlord" who has rooms to rent—these all know that their messages are interesting to live and progressive people—that no others read "the want ad messages."

THERE'S A WANT AD MESSAGE FOR YOU IN ALMOST EVERY ISSUE of this PAPER!

IF THERE WERE NO PARTICULAR MEN THERE'D BE NO TAILORS—WOULD THERE?

Consider it. DEMAND creates supply—in the Art Crafts and Professions.

There are tailors because some people insist on having made for themselves clothes. What sort of people are they who thus assure the calling of the good tailor, and make him an important man in his community? Careless dressers, do you suppose—or CAREFUL ones?

And as for YOU—do you belong to the class of people who insist upon good tailoring, or to the class of people who would make good tailoring a lost art?

WORK PROGRESSING ON METHODIST ASSEMBLY GROUNDS
Asheville, Aug. 22.—J. W. Seavers, Jr., engineer in charge of the survey work on the Southern Methodist Assembly grounds near Waynesville, was a visitor in Asheville Saturday afternoon and talked interestingly of the work on the grounds and prospects for the future. Mr. Seavers says that work is progressing well; that the roads around the proposed lake are nearing completion, and that indications point to a continuance of active operations.

The Southern Methodist Assembly grounds near Waynesville is a huge undertaking. When worked out and ready for lot-owners and visitors it is probable that it will be the greatest summer assembly grounds in the South. The Methodists own approximately 1,200 acres of ground, through which runs the bold, clear Richland creek. These 1,200 or more acres are to be converted into assembly grounds property; lots and a lake. The site originally selected for the dam has been changed and the dam will be located approximately one-half mile below the site formerly selected. A better site, it is said, has been secured for the dam and a finer lake will be the result. It has been decided to build the dam of concrete reinforced with steel with a 20-foot driveway. Originally it was proposed to make the dam of dirt with a concrete core. The concrete dam located at the present site will cost less, it is said, than a core-dam at the former site.

There will be a meeting of stockholders of the assembly grounds at Waynesville August 30, when the contract for the dam will be let. Also other important matters will be attended to, such as bonding the assembly grounds for $300,000 and getting down to work. It is understood that the $300,000 for the bonds will be forthcoming in cash and that work will proceed actively at once. It is proposed to have the grounds in such condition that lots may be sold and utilized by next year. Likewise it is said that approximately 500 lots have been sold tentatively.

$18,000 THEFT EXPOSED BY HIS TIP TO BARBER.

Bank Employee's Liberality on $50 Salary Followed by Inquiry.
Concinnati, Aug. 22.—John C. Byland was brought to Kentucky this morning from Detroit by Sheriff Hume, and will be prosecuted for having stolen a will of $18,000 from the Richmond (Kentucky) Savings Bank, of which he was cashier.

His son, Raymond Byland, is now serving a sentence of five years in the Kentucky penitentiary for the same crime. Both disappeared eighteen months ago. A few days before their disappearance the son was in a barber shop getting shaved. He gave the barber a quarter and told him to keep the change. One of the bank directors overheard this. Byland was receiving $50 a month as assistant cashier. An investigation followed. Both men fled. The son was captured a few months ago at Sacramento, Cal., and the father yesterday in Detroit.

WHITE MAN DROWNED IN WILMINGTON LAST NIGHT.

Wilmington, Aug. 22.—Charles Harrison, white, aged about 25 years, whose home is in the southern section of the city, was drowned in a cinder pit under the A. C. L. track near the coal chute last night at about 11:30 o'clock. Harrison leaves a wife and several children.

The man had been drinking during the night and when he went across the A. C. L. track near the coal chute and fell into the cinder pit he was either too drunk or was unable to swim, and after a short struggle was drowned. The water in the pit was about seven feet deep. A negro in the vicinity heard Harrison's cries and secured help and hastened to the pit. However, when they arrived the man was already dead. They took the body from the pit and notified the police. Sergeant Grimsley went to the scene and a little later notified Dr. C. D. Bell, the coroner, who went at once to the spot. After making an examination Dr. Bell gave permission to move the body.

CAT ON STEEPLE'S TOP

Neighbors Cannot Figure Out How Feline Got There.

Baltimore, Aug. 27.—Calmly roosting upon the top of the steeple of German Lutheran Trinity Church, Trinity street, near Exeter, is a large gray cat. How and when the feline reached its perilous perch is a mystery to the neighborhood. The cat is said to have been on the roof of the church for the last week. Several children of the vicinity claim to have seen it there as far back as Wednesday of last week. The church is surrounded on all four sides by a stone wall, and there is no other building within jumping distance.

That the animal has some means of leaving the steeple at will is evident by the fact that it does not appear to be suffering from lack of nourishment. This morning the sexton, Henry Gistler, climbed to within a few feet of the animal and tried to coax it to come down. His efforts were futile. Even the sight of a tempting piece of meat failed to arouse the cat's curiosity. The superstitious of the neighborhood regard the animal with awe, as it appears impossible for even a cat to scale the slippers, slate roof of the steeple.

SHARK CARRIED AN UMBRELLA IN THE HOLD.

Lewes, Del., Aug. 22.—A man eating shark, 17 feet in length, captured today at the mouth of Delaware Bay by James Keyes, a member of the crew of Lightship No. 69, had an umbrella with the covering intact in its stomach. There were also several large pieces of oilcloth, a lot of steel junk and other indigestible things.

The shark was caught by Keyes after a hard fight. When he succeeded in bringing it to the surface he used a steam winch to land the monster on the deck of the lightship.

PRESIDENT OF CUBA DEPARTS TWO EDITORS.

Orders Them on Board Spanish Ship Because of Their Criticisms.

Havana, Aug. 22.—Jose Maria Villaverde, general manager of the Conservative organ, Cuba, and his nephew, Manuel, of the editorial staff, were deported this afternoon on Alonzo XIII, sailing for Spain.

This was done by a decree of President Gomez, declaring them to be pernicious foreigners, prejudicial to the permanence of the Cuban republic. The Cuba has been criticizing the government, though in a less aggressive manner than has El Dia. But Andre, the editor of El Dia, is a native Cuban and a member of the Congress.

The younger Villaverde surrendered, but Jose Maria told the police they could not enter his house until the bench warrant was shown. But they broke in the door and seized him.

It is alleged there is nothing in the constitution warranting such deportation though President Palma did deport an Italian, Perinno, on the same grounds. Perinno is back, however.

Sulphur Ointment, 25c. Mrs. Evelyn Garst, of Salem, Va., writes: "Three years ago I had a rough place on my cheek, it would burn and itch. I was fearful it might be of a cancerous nature. I used different preparations, but nothing ever helped it. One bottle of Sulphur Compound cured me completely. I recommend it to any one having any skin disease." For sale by How-

UNDERWOOD'S PRESIDENTIAL BOOM RIVALS CLARK'S

Shorn of Power the Speaker's Influence Has Waned, While That of Democratic Floor Leader Has Increased—Bryan Plays Part, of Course, in the Clark-Underwood Differences.

(By SIDNEY ESPEY.)

Washington, Aug. 22.—There is undoubted rivalry over the House leadership between Speaker Champ Clark and Chairman Oscar Underwood, of the Ways and Means Committee. This centers in the ambition of each to be President of the United States.

In the beginning of this Congress there seemed to be no conflicting aspirations between these two Democrats. The name of the new Speaker was on every lip, and he appeared to tower infinitely above the head of his associate from Alabama.

But times have changed. It has developed that under the new rules of the House, the Speaker is nothing more or less than a figure head. No power attaches to this once powerful office. There is some glory in presiding over the lower house of Congress, but there is little for the Speaker to do aside from ruling upon parliamentary questions.

All this has tended to obscure Speaker Clark. He has had no committees to appoint, and therefore no great body of Representatives are under obligations to him.

He has had no committees or individuals approach him and ask him if this measure or that measure might come up for consideration. He has had but few requests for recognition from the floor.
As a result he has been more or less ignored in carrying out the program of the party caucus.

All this, too, is in direct contrast with the power that centered in the Speakership under Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois.
At that time the Speakership was regarded as the most powerful office in the government, not excepting the Presidency. But that is past. When Speaker Cannon was shorn of his great authority Speaker Clark was shorn by the same act.

On the other hand, Chairman Underwood has figured more prominently before the country during the extra session than has any other member of either branch. He has led all the tariff fighting. He has practically framed the wool, the cotton, and the free list bills.
He put reciprocity through the House, and has, within the past few days, represented the whole House on the conference committee.

Incidentally, the Alabamian has developed real leadership, and has kept his Democratic majority squarely behind him throughout the whole session. This has given him a creditable reputation throughout the country.

Then came the Underwood presidential boom. It was initiated in Alabama, and for a time was regarded simply as a local effort to pay a compliment to a favorite son. Nobody outside Underwood's State seemed to take the matter seriously, and least of all was a serious view taken of it in Washington.

When the Ways and Means chairman clashed with William Jennings Bryan, and when he was found to have practically every Democratic member of the House behind him in his fight, his presidential boom was given sudden and startling inflation. Politicians began to take notice of Underwood, and to estimate his chances for the presidential nomination.

As Speaker Clark's star waned, Underwood's grew brighter. It would not have been human in the Speaker to sit idly by, and see his lieutenant pass him in this fashion. He did sit still, however, in so far as appearances went, but the gossip is that he did not approve of the attack upon Bryan, and that he said so to a number of his personal friends in the House.

Clark has been a Bryan man many years. He was for Bryan when the Nebraskan first jumped into fame, and has been consistent in his support of the Peerless Leader. As a reward for this current report has it that the Speaker would receive Bryan's support for the nomination next year. Mr. Bryan even placed his O. K. on the Missouri state-man, which was taken to mean that the Bryan influence would be thrown to Clark should the Missourian be a candidate for the presidential nomination.

Naturally the Speaker thought himself entitled to the support of the House majority, and, now that they are in control of the House, he felt that he should command their support ahead of any other member of the body.

When he found the majority membership of the House taking the side of Underwood against Bryan, and found that the Ways and Means chairman was more potent in his leadership than the speaker had ever been, Mr. Clark was naturally displeased.

To add to the unfriendliness said to exist between the two Democratic leaders word has come to the ears of the Clark leaders that a full fledged movement has been inaugurated by the Underwood people to capture most of the Eastern votes in the national convention. An effort is being made now to divide the New York delegation, giving Underwood a share of the votes from that State.

Unless the New York delegation should be united around some local man like Dix or Gaynor, it probably will split when the convention meets. Wilson will get some of them, Harmon will get some,
and the proposition now is to give Underwood the remainder. This leaves Clark out of consideration entirely, in spite of the fact that his friends put him into the field as a presidential candidate months ahead of the first mention of Underwood for that honor.

It would be folly to assume that the two House leaders are growing fonder of each other day by day. They are not. They are getting farther and farther apart. They may pull together in the House for the good of the whole party and the chances are that they will.
But, when their own ambitions become manifest, it will be found that they are political enemies.

The Last Resort.

Mrs. Hobson was an ideal tenant for any landlord. She knew all the rules and kept to them in every place she lived. When she discovered that the agent for the Uphill apartments was slow in ordering necessary repairs she possessed her soul in patience.

But when she had spoken and written unavailingly several times in regard to the leak from one of her steam radiators, she decided to send a personal note to the owner of the property, whom she had met and liked.

"Dear sir," she wrote, "will you be kind enough to instruct your agent to purchase for my use a large tin pall and a rubber mat, four feet by ten?
The pall will do to catch the water from the leaking radiator pipe when I am in the house and can frequently empty it, but the rubber mat is a necessity at other times. Yours respectfully, Mary Hobson."

She never needed either the pall or mat.—Youth's Companion.

Paper Towels.

There is now on the market a paper towel, and for it many advantages are claimed. The paper towel is made of a tough, soft, absorbent crepe tissue paper made up in long strips which are rolled. For use paper towels are carried on a roller fixture. The long, rolled strip is cross perforated at regular intervals, giving to each roll sections about a foot in width by a foot and a half long. Anyone wanting a towel has simply to tear one off.

A paper towel can, of course, be used but once, but it is not expensive.
It is designed to provide a sanitary towel for hotels and clubs, for schools and various institutions, for railroad stations, public buildings, stores and factories, and for domestic use—a clean towel for every one at every wash.

Women's Heels.

Few of the women of this generation can boast of the noiseless foot-fall attributed to their mothers or grandmothers. No longer is a step as light as thistledown an accomplishment, or even a natural gift, but instead the tramp of the Hessian prevails, even when the person is slight.
This martial tread is not necessarily the expression of female insubordinate, but is rather due to the construction of the Cuban or other high heels attached to fashionable footwear. On examination Cuban heels will be found to be quite heavily weighted with brass nails, and often an extra screw of good size at the middle.
These must of necessity give out the click-click that all but the deaf can hear and also make the tread much heavier.

Taken at His Word.

"Going to sue me for breach of promise? That girl? Well, I'll give up!"
"How much?" queried her attorney rubbing his hands.

Easy.

Policeman—You've been begging.
Now you just accompany me.
Organ Grinder—With pleasure, sir;

Nell—That complexion of Maude's makes her look fast.

AMERICAN GAME OF BLUFF PLAYED AND WON IN ENGLAND

Adjournment of Parliament Discloses Inside of "Black-leg Peers" Threat.

London, Aug. 22.—Now that Parliament has adjourned, now that the government has triumphed in its measure to curb the power of the lords, and now that sufficient time has elapsed to allow a keen analysis of the position taken by the opposition and the government in the great veto bill fight, England—at least a majority of the inhabitants—is enjoying the discomfiture of the lords with extreme gusto.

The fact is that while the ancient constitution of England has been banded about between the warring parties, the Parliament bill and its threat of "Black-leg Peers" was supremely laughable, for time has uncovered the gigantic game of bluff on which the government jammed its measure down the throats of the aristocracy. Whether the bill stood or fell there would have been no "Black-leg Peers."

Had the lords refused the bill it is believed that the King, seeking an easy and graceful manner of evading the government's prediction of a wholesale addition to the peerage, would have instructed his ministers to make attempts to bring about the same ends through channels less offensive to their lordships; perhaps refusing outright to flood the peerage and in any event delaying his action till every other means had been exhausted.

So it seems that the great body of England's nobility has all its worry for nothing, and that bluff, almost American in its intensity, has won.

Is England becoming peer poor? This question is engaging the attention of the elite as it has never done before. Scarcely a month goes by that does not chronicle the bankruptcy of one or more of the aristocracy. To civil courts are becoming as familiar to the nobility as the halls of Buckingham Palace.

The epidemic of impecuniness, which started with the appearance of several creditors of the Earl of Yarmouth, erstwhile spendthrift of Miss Alice Thaw's accumulation of steel currency, rapidly spread to the ancestral estates of the Marquis of Huntly whose home at Orton Hall, Orton Longueville, was in pawn to the three ball merchants and had its culmination in the involuntary petition of bankruptcy made by the creditors of Gerald Oakley Cadogan, Viscount Chelsea, son and heir of Lord Cadogan.

This trio, each of whom are young, prone to pleasure and fond of sport, are but the unfortunate examples of a condition that prevails extensively in the English peerage. They are but the extreme exemplification of the state of penury that prevails throughout the English peerage, many of whose landed estates are mortgaged up to the weathercock on the stables, and who are only kept afloat because of the impossibility of their creditors realizing by foreclosure.

In the case of the three young nobles now in court each is the heir to an extensive patrimony and the legal action was simply taken that the creditors might have their claims well defined, but throughout the British empire there are hundreds of peers whose family finances are in the last stage of senile decay and whose perverted sense of the fitting prohibits them from seeking their financial rejuvenation by any means that entails the sweat of toil.

The eccentric American millionaire yachtsman who for twenty years has lived off the coast of Essex, surprising the natives with sudden fits of generosity and repelling the advances of the tax collectors with a refusal to submit to British taxation, has at last been rounded up by the slow process of British civil procedure. Mr. Brown will hereafter pay "is bloomin' taxes" or suffer the visit of a "bobby."

Brown has come to be known as "the old man of the sea." His yacht has been moored near Essex for over twenty years and during that time he has set foot on shore only some two or three times. His character is as eccentric as his habits are peculiar. He evidently hated the sight of anything British, yet his generosity has aided over many a poor family.

He first began his fight against taxation many years ago, when he refused to pay the income tax. For years his boat remained an enigma to the tax collectors, who, because they were unable to catch him afoot on British soil, could not legally seize his person or his property.
As time went on, however, and the tax mounted up into the thousands, it was decided to have recourse to the law, with the result that the Inland Revenue Commissioners have been instructed by the court to levy and collect such taxes as apply to his peculiar mode of living.

The widespread public criticism of the English War Department's lack of progressiveness in the matter of aeronautics has had the result of quickening that body into a fit of energy that bids fair to add several innovations to the familiar modes of attack and defense by air.

The latest scheme is the construction of a torpedo boat with wings—or, not to confuse the reader—an aeroplane capable of carrying a torpedo.

The Naval Advisory Committee on Ae-ronautics has the matter in hand and has set about the construction of a model. The machine will be driven, in the first instance, by the propeller of the torpedo, thus effecting great economy in weight.

When the torpedo is released the aeroplane will, it is believed, require only a low velocity to keep it up, and this will be supplied by switching a supplementary engine, possibly of the compressed air turbine type.

It is expected that the first machine will be ready for trial within a year.

LIFE ON A BOER FARM

NOT INVITING FROM AMERICAN POINT OF VIEW.

Woman Traveler Describes the Mo-nocity and Discomforts She Found in the Agricultural Regions of South Africa.

An American woman traveling in South Africa was detained by floods and compelled to spend a month on a Boer farm.

"The first night's monotony," she writes in Health Culture, "was broken by the roaring of ostriches under our windows. We thought it was a tame lion."

"The farmer and his family lived chiefly on sour bread and sour skimmed milk. I was therefore hungry most of the time and the ripe figs hanging in clusters were pretty alluring. After pushing back the skin of the fig and enjoying the soft fruit with its tropical taste I had a refreshing night's sleep, only to awaken in the morning pretty well scared, for my tongue was so swollen and black that I could not talk."

"The Boer wife laughed and enjoyed my discomfiture and explained that the skin of the fig had numerous fine thorns and I had not been careful to remove it when eating."

"When I told the farmer's wife that I liked butter milk in quantity I noticed that I had a cupful or so given me, but she threw it by the pallid to the pigs. They were of far more consequence to her than I, for they would stay longer with her and were her familiar. I was not."

"Then again, when I was hungry for butter on my bread, a white clammy substance made from 'sheepstall fat' was handed to me, and I could not allow the farmer's wife to see me quiver. She sold her butter in the village close by at 75 cents a pound, more or less. Sour bread and green strawberries (plenty of them) were considered good enough."

"The Boer family was one of the wealthiest of their kind. There was not a ripple of fun or exuberant life in anything but the live stock. Conversation was a dead language—unknown."

"The women are mute beings, accepting their destiny with a deep stifleness. The wife gives of her strength to the limit, and dies after giving birth to a dozen or more children, to make way for wife number two, who gives another dozen children to her country. Her adobe house, with its dirt floor made of anthill clay mixed with beef-gall, is a chamber of horror to an American traveler."

"The farmer depends upon his ten to eighteen children, of all sizes, to help him. A Kaffir as an employee is unobtainable as the wind that blows. Yet that Kaffir is the hired man in the mines and elsewhere in South Africa. The white man as a day laborer is a general failure. He cannot be worked in droves like the Kaffir from the interior, whose language, in clicks and vowel sounds, is hardly human."

"The Boer is not long lived. One seldom met an aged Boer of the old stock. Oom Paul Kruger, who was an exception. He died, was an exception. Hatred toward the Uit-lander and the lust for gold and power was what kept the fires of life burning at white heat within him."

"To stem the elements alone in Africa takes the stoutest heart. Fevers assail the discouraged and underfed home boy. The easily forded streams become rivers, like swirling Niagaras, in a few hours and the terrific thunderstorms paralyze one sensitive to electrical influences."

"There is no pretty little, far-off streak in the sky which the amateur photographer can catch on his film, but the air is charged with electricity so appalling in its violet hue and deep orange earthbound clouds that one has to come to a complete standstill whether walking or riding on the open veldt, so as not to attract the ribbonlike lightning playing around him and venting its fury on any moving object."

The fellow who never raises a hand to help himself should keep out of poker games.

DIAMOND DUST

Swindell-ed again.

Obstreperous Twins here today.

Sons of Clancy here again tomorrow.

We still have the opportunity of getting two.

Why not have the eighth inning of baseball games eliminated.

There will be baseball here the rest of this week. It is up to the fans to give the team their heartiest support.

The season is not over by nearly two weeks and the pennant has not been awarded to anybody. The fan or the player that gives up too early is a "piker."

Since we have two pennants on our string, we by no means deserve another.
The only reason we favor taking it from Winston is that we do not think a precedent of buying pennants should be allowed in this league.

Winsto where today and tomorrow.
The last three days of the week the Charlotte club will be our guests. The fans should turn out well for these five games for they will all be classy baseball and worth more than the price of admission.

The Little Champs Won.
The Little Champs defeated the Glenwood team yesterday afternoon by the score of 22 to 2. The feature of the game was the pitching of Hepler. The batteries were Little Champs, Hepler and Carroll; Glenwood, McCauley and Williams.

Loss of Time Means Loss of Pay.
Kidney trouble and the ills it breeds means lost time and lost pay to many a working man. M. Balent, 1214 Little from kidney and bladder trouble that he could not work, but he says: "I took Foley Kidney Pills for only a short time

WEATHER RECORDS OF 77 YEARS BROKEN BY GERMANY'S DROUGHT

Dry and Hot Weather Causes Suffering—Crop Failures Impending in the Empire.

(By FREDERICK WERNER.)

Berlin, Aug. 22.—Berlin is stewing in a sauce of heat. The Kaiser has taken to his yacht, the poorer classes to the roofs and the bourgeoisie to the hills.
The drought is the longest and the weather the hottest that has enveloped the city in 77 years.

Everywhere the suffering is intense.
Streets of molten asphalt, trees burnt to a cinder and long rows of sunbaked, redbricked dwelling houses radiating and intensifying the caresses of the sun, bring the thermometer registrations up to the 100 mark and past daily, and make life in the city almost unbearable as a residence.

Casualties among the poor are enormous. Not a day goes by without at least a score of prostrations and as many deaths reported. Business has fallen off 50 per cent and the hustling German capital has taken on the tone of ennui that makes the mid day siesta of tropical towns a matter of custom and a means of self preservation.

A crop failure seems imminent. Even the fertile valley of the Rhine has been stricken and in the outlying districts government returns report damage to the extent of many millions of marks. The situation has reached a condition where the sluggish German Department of the Interior must act, if it would allay a huge loss of life and money.

What action will be taken by the government is a matter of conjecture, but that taken by the authorities of Berlin has been both prompt and efficacious.
The city fathers have thrown open the fountains of the city to the poor. Ragged urchins, unemployed workmen and women nursing babies, gather in huge crowds about these oases of comfort and drink or splash at will in the cooling water.

The streets are flushed three times a day. The parks have been converted into lodging houses and police discipline has assumed a never before noted elasticity that leaves the poorer quarters nightly strewn with thousands whose tiny rooms are too hot for sleep.

Added to these municipal measures are the efforts of various relief societies whose funds have been swollen by contributions from every class of society.
These organizations work chiefly among the poor, endeavoring to make life bearable for their charge by the distribution of milk, food and directions governing the hygienic arrangement of a heat-stricken home.

Russia, the connecting link between the east and west, has naturally assimilated some of the characteristics of both.
She has fallen into the political sloth that has marred the eastern empires with corruption, intrigue and internal class dissension, and has off-set these drawbacks with emulated principles of Western progressiveness. The latter characteristic is exemplified in the events of the past week.

For years the spirit of militarism has been combated by the masses and for years Russia has depended upon her country-bred half-savage citizens for the best army material. This was all very well while the anti-militarists were in the minority, but with the advance of time, socialism has spread its creed of passive resistance to such an extent that the Czar has felt the need of a re-instalment of military favor to strengthen his forces.

To set about engendering this spirit, the government officials conceived the plan of emulating England and her Boy Scout movement. The campaign was quietly set afoot. Circulars were printed and distributed broadcast. Memories of past military glory were invoked and every known chord of popular appeal struck by those in charge of the venture.

The result has been far from satisfactory and, though the movement has been in vogue for some time, it was not until this week the Nicholas felt himself sufficiently strong to risk an assemblage of a national character. It was decided, however, to risk the derision of the populace in an effort to stir a spirit of emulation among the children, and today troops and battalions of boys are forming in St. Petersburg.

It seems, however, that the marshalling of these children was ill advised for scarcely more than six thousand have answered the call—many of these from those half-savage parts of the great empire where fighting is the only occupation.

The Socialist press is jubilant and even the government publications maintain an ominous silence. It is safe to say that Socialism is too firmly inculcated in the masses to give way to the uniforms and petty authority embodied in a membership among the so-called "Play Troops."

The phlegmatic German temperament lands itself little to the vagaries of the jester, and when that phlegmatism is ribbed with the spectacle of importance of a German scientific society, the slightest deviation from that path of stupid ponderosity brings quick rebuke and speedy vengeance. German scientific reputation is a weighty thing even when error makes it ridiculous.

A member of the Cassel Scientific Research Society of Frankfurt, has felt the hand of both speedy vengeance and swift rebuke for he has been expelled from the learned society, publicly rebuked and is now threatened with legal procedure—all because his vein of humor prompted him to take advantage of his colleagues.

It happened in this manner. A skull was recently found in the ancient grotto near Stemen and the playful research society savant pronounced it to be a human skull of the pre-historic period.
The find was forwarded to the eminent anthropological expert of the University of Breslau, Professor Herman Kladtsch, who declared it to be the skull of a modern chimpanzee.

The author of the joke was promptly and publicly rebuked, expelled from the society and threatened with legal procedure for making his colleagues and German science look ridiculous.

Accused of Stealing.
E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Me., boldly accuses Bucklen's Arnica Salve of stealing—the sting from burns or scalds —the pain from sores of all kinds—the distress from boils or piles. "It robs cuts, corns, bruises, sprains and injuries of their terror," he says, "as a healing remedy its equal don't exist." Only 25c Botanists in Alarm.

No little alarm is being felt among botanists at present at the rapid disappearance of the wild flowers of the Hawaiian Islands. The flowers are beautiful beyond description, but many of them have become extinct already. Some of them have very strange properties or habits.
For instance, the flower of the Hau tree lasts but a single day, opening at sunrise and closing at sunset. The Koa-Awahi is another beautiful flower and it changes from purple to pink during the day. Some of these flowers, such as the Poolanne, bloom only in April and May, but the greater number seem to bloom nearly the entire year. Some of the vines are very prolific, one of them spreads over an entire acre of ground. One curious plant is a fly catcher, and still another, lures unsuspecting insects to destruction by a peculiar odor and light.

No Fear.
Robert W. Chambers has, as a novelist, a fertility that is only exceeded by his brilliance.

At the Century club, in New York the other day one of those elderly bore who are the bane of all clubs drew his chair up to Mr. Chambers' and said genially:
"Chambers, you are writing at the rate of two and sometimes three novels every year, to say nothing of your annual sheaf of short stories. Aren't you afraid that a time will come when you will have written yourself out?" "My dear sir," Mr. Chambers replied, "I have no such fear. Just look at your own case. You have been talking for more than sixty years, and yet you haven't talked yourself out, have you?"

PARIS FINDS NEW USE FOR SEINE WATER

Fishermen Have Been Supplanted by Bathers --Oppressive Weather Drives Parisians to

(By GEORGE DUFRESNE.)

Paris, Aug. 20.—A lively controversy between an actress and an Archbishop is affording gossiping Paris a good deal of amusement. The actress is Mlle. Eve Lavalliere, the toast of the boulevards; the cleric, Monseigneur Amette, Archbishop of Paris, and the laughter provoking incident hinges on the militant actress's attempt to obtain the Archbishop's blessing and an audience. The true version of the affair has just come to light.

Mlle. Lavalliere was taken ill and went to a nursing home kept by nuns. The Mother Superior, when she was leaving, after being cured, gave her a medal to wear around her neck. Mademoiselle also had herself photographed and interviewed among the sisters and impressed all with the fervor of her devotions.

Later she went to take the waters at Evian and heard that the Archbishop of Paris was there also. Here was an opportunity too good to be missed. The medal given her by the Mother Superior was precious enough in its way but how much more valuable if blessed by the Archbishop? She wrote to Monseigneur Amette a respectful and humble request. The prelate replied that he would be delighted to bless the medal but that it must be brought to him by a third person as he regretted not being able to receive Mlle. Lavalliere.

Those who have seen Mlle. Lavalliere in the state may imagine how in real life she would take such a reply. The interview with the Archbishop was, perhaps, what she had really set her heart upon. It was precisely what he found shy of giving. Probably visions of paragraphs in the comic Paris papers deterred him. Mlle. Lavalliere wrote back to the Archbishop and wrote with some effect, receiving the letter, which was high pitched in language. Monseigneur Amette is said to have thanked Providence rather fervently that he did not accept an appointment with so peppery though pious lady.

Henri Rochefort, who is becoming quite a moralist in his old age, has given vent to some personal comments on love.

"Love is being practised in an original manner in France today," he says, "A young man loves a girl and to prove the intensity of his affections he puts a bullet or two into her head and then blows out his brains."

Various examples of these tragic amours have been given us within the last few days. A boy of nineteen thus disposed of himself and a girl of thirteen.

Then a dragoon stationed at Tours came to Paris for a similar exploit. He was deeply in love with Suzanne. Suzanne is dying with two bullets in her head. The dragoon is already dead. Excepting his passion the dragoon had all the qualities of a good soldier. And at the present writing still another proof of love via target practice is occupying the attention of the public.

This latest tragedy centers around a baker and two girls who worked in the shop where he was employed. The baker, it seems, loved both, and each of the damsels loved him. His solution of this perplexing situation was sanguinary. He killed them both and then pierced his heart with a huge bread-knife.

Parisians have found a new use for the Seine this summer—they are bathing in it. Heretofore they have only fished in it and reproached it when it rose too high and caused loss and inconvenience. But this summer both fishing and reproaching has given way to the affection of familiarity.

Swimming baths have been installed along the crowded water front, and from early in the morning till late at night the heat suffering idlers may be seen fighting for admission. This has had the effect of changing the whole aspect of the Parisian waterfront. It has wooed the French Isaac Walton's from their "sport" and cast gloom upon thousands who, too lazy to fish themselves, nevertheless enjoyed their daily quarry anent the luck of the fisherman.

Of course everyone knows that the men who sit on the banks of the Seine with their legs dangling over the quayside never catch anything. They don't want to. If a minnow were to become entangled in their tackle it would only annoy them. They are not really anglers, they are only fishermen "pour rire," patient philosophers, who have found that a rod and a line does not interfere with indolent meditations on life and destiny, on men and women—especially women—and the consolation that comes from watching other people work.

But however this may be, a fisherman with rod and line, slouch hat and drooping pipe is at least picturesque; while the same person divested of his togs and padding placidly in the pools of the swimming baths is prosaic. Parisian habits of the waterfront miss the fishermen.

Fear is loose in the valley of the Nesles. Two women have been mysteriously murdered. Children have been eaten alive and their bodies, bearing the horrible marks of their assailant, have been found weltering in pools of blood. The peasants are flocking to the churches. Prayers and incantations fill the air, and the more active and less superstitious of the village heads are organizing posses to hunt down the strange murderer.

The only clue to these mysterious crimes is a series of peculiar foot prints and the equally peculiar manner of killing, each victim receiving its mortal wound in the back of the neck, as though some huge beast had sprung from above, lighted upon its victims' shoulders and crushed out its life with one snap of its huge jaws.

So superstitious are the peasants and so great their fear of the unknown, that little can be learned from them. The government authorities, however, have taken the matter up and are now sending several agents into the fear-stricken territory. It is hoped that the mystery will soon be unravelled.

A possible solution of the extraordinary series of crimes comes from the Paris Chief of Police, who has watched the newspaper reports closely and has been in correspondence with friends living in the terrorized region. He states that in his opinion the crimes were committed by a huge ape, probably escaped from some itinerant circus, and driven to desperation by hunger. Working on this theory the government officials are scouring the country in an effort to locate showmen, who may throw a light on the mysterious crimes by completing the police head's theory, with an admission of a monkey's escape.

TOO JOYFUL TO GET JOB.

Postmaster's Confirmation Held Up When Celebration Story Leaks Out.

Washington, Aug. 22.—An appointment said to have been held up because the appointee became too joyful when he received word that he had been appointed by the President as postmaster at Newark, Del., is giving Robert L. Armstrong time to repent at leisure, and his $2,000 job never seemed so far away as it does at this minute.

Armstrong was appointed by the President on the request of Senator Du Pont and Representative Heald. His nomination went to the Senate along with a score or more of others, three weeks ago. When the Senate took them up in executive session there was a conference on that of Armstrong, and it was withheld. Someone had informed several Senators that when Armstrong was informed of his nomination he drove to Glasgow, near Newark, to celebrate his success with relatives and friends. It was charged that at 11:45 o'clock that night the new appointee made the welkin ring in that quiet town and horrified the staid residents by driving through town, yelling at the top of his voice.

It is intimated that the hold-up of the nomination was due to the action of Zachary Harris, postmaster at Glasgow. At any rate, Armstrong will view his job from a distance, for a time at least. It is not likely the President will give him a recess appointment after the Senate adjourns, unless Senator duPont urges such action upon his return from Europe the latter part of September.

CONNECTICUT HAS MAN FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

Nutmeg State Democrats Booming Governor Baldwin for Place.

Bridgeport, Aug. 22.—Governor Simon E. Baldwin is in the lists for the Democratic nomination for vice president in 1912. His name will go before the national Democratic convention with all the backing that can be worked up through a systematic canvass of the country proceeding from a Baldwin vice presidential bureau, plans for the operation of which soon will be fully matured.

The Baldwin boom was conceived a few weeks ago by State Senator Archibald McNeil, Jr., of this city. The practical unanimity of favor with which the idea was received was disclosed at a conference of Democratic leaders in Hartford, this week. The conference took steps to organize a bureau to begin a campaign in the Governor's behalf. Connecticut party leaders are largely for Governor Harmon for President, in respect of the Baldwin canvass, but among the masses there is a strong Wilson sentiment.

In Superior Court.

All of today in Superior Court was taken up with the case of H. F. Starr vs. Southern Bell Telephone Company, in which the plaintiff is seeking to recover damages to the amount of $20,000 because of injuries alleged to have been caused on account of negligence of the defendant. The case will probably go to the jury late tomorrow. When the case was heard before it consumed an entire week, but this time a good deal of unnecessary evidence was cut out.

The debt a man owes to himself generally makes him a preferred creditor.
